

Yarmouth Town

1. In Yarmouth Town there lived a man, and he kept a tavern down by the strand.
This landlord had a daughter fair,
a plump little girl with the golden hair.

Chorus:

Oh, won't you come down,
Won't you come down,
Won't you come down
To Yarmouth town.

2. By this time came a sailor man and he asked the daughter all for her hand.
„Why should I marry you, she said,
I get all I want without being wed.

3. "But if you care with me to linger,
I'll tie a little string all around my finger and you come by, just pull on the string and I'll come down and let you all in."

4. At closing time the sailor man he's gone to the tavern down by the strand and as he passed by, he pulled on the string, and she's come down, and she's let old Jack in.

5. Now he's never seen such a sight before,
'cause the string around the finger was all she wore.
[no missing lines; this verse isn't longer]

6. The sailor stayed the whole night through and early in the morning went back to his crew, and then he told them about the maiden fair,
the pretty little thing with the golden hair.

7. Well, the news it soon got around and the very next night in Yarmouth Town there was fifteen sailors pulling on the string and she's come down and she's let them all in.

8. So all young men that to Yarmouth go, if you see a pretty girl with her hair hanging low,
well, all you've got to do is pull on the string,
and she'll come down and she'll let you in.
